... The sun bobbed up – remember this, my little son and daughter – And turned those twenty snowflakes into twenty drops of water.

What happened to the snowflakes at the end of the poem?

Sometimes, to answer sequencing questions, you need to look back at a particular part of a text. We need to look at the end of the poem.

At the end of the poem, the sun came up and melted the snowflakes into twenty drops of water.